

Posted by Stacey Axmaker,

Idaho STAR Motorcycle Safety Program

May 7, 2014

BRC2 License Waiver

Does anybody know how many states use the BRC2 License Waiver with the waiver component as an option? If not, I'll contact the MSF when they open their offices...

MARYLAND

Lori, Greetings & Felicitations! In The Free State of Maryland we do, but we call it the Alternate Basic Rider Course (ABRC). If you want some details, give me a call.

~Philip Sause

VIRGINIA

Hi Lori, here in VA we do not use the BRC 2 license waiver.

~Bruce Biondo

MASSACHUSETTS

Good afternoon Lori, MA uses the ERC (BRC2) for licensing waiver. Since the students take the ERC (BRC2) on their own motorcycle they must have a motorcycle permit. Thanks.

~Eugene F. Carabine

UTAH

Utah allows a waiver for successful completion of the ERC (BRC2), the student needs a permit to get his bike to the course.

~Kurt Stromberg

VERMONT

VT has been using the BRC2 License Waiver for about six years with good results. Attendees are required to have a motorcycle permit.

~Paul A. Graves

NORTH CAROLINA

North Carolina allows the BRC2 waiver, but the student must have a permit to take the class. Thanks,

~Bob Wagner

MARYLAND

Lori, We do. We call it the Alternate basic Rider Course
<http://www.mva.maryland.gov/safety/motorcycle/training/alternate-basic-rider.htm>.

~Philip Sause

INDIANA

Lori Indiana issues waivers of skills test to successful participants of BRC 2 courses. All participants of BRC 2 courses must possess a motorcycle endorsement or learners permit prior to participating.

~Jeff Stokes

CONNECTICUT

In CT we do not use the BRC2 alone as a license waiver. We do however incorporate the level 2 classroom from the BRC into the BRC2 which we call the Intermediate Rider Course (IRC). Our IRC is a license waiver course and students must use their own motorcycle and be permitted to ride.

~Nicholas Just