

Posted by Pat Haun

Communications and Outreach Manager

August 15, 2014

Oregon in the News

If you haven't seen it, the Oregon motorcycle safety program and staff appeared in an article and on the cover of American Motorcyclist magazine - the monthly publication of the American Motorcyclist Association. You can click here<<http://team-oregon.org/downloads/files/American%20Motorcyclist%20August%202014.pdf>> to view or download the article.

Even though the AMA opposes motorcycle mandates in general, it's a balanced and positive article about mandatory rider education programs and states' efforts to reduce crashes, injuries and fatalities. Well done, AMA, in educating your members about rider training!

The article also highlights and underscores the sometimes pivotal role of MROs, and how their support can help state motorcycle safety programs fulfill their missions. It's a good message to take away with you.

See all y'all in September!